Diphtheria Immunisation.

During 1945, 300 children were immunised against Diphtheria. 53 of these children were between the ages of 5 and 15 years, and 247 under school age.

Sanitary Administration.

Disinfection and Disinfestation.

Thirty-two rooms were disinfected following cases of infectious diseases. Seven houses were treated for the eradication of bed-bugs. Three houses were fumigated upon being vacated by evacuated families and one upon being vacated by a tenant who kept an excessive number of domestic animals.

Nuisances.

Two hundred and fifty-eight complaints of alleged nuisances were lodged and, of these, two hundred and eight were satisfactorily dealt with by informal action, leaving fifty outstanding at the end of the year. In two other cases it was found necessary to serve abatement notices.

Moveable Dwellings.

At the end of the year fourteen licences issued under the provisions of Section 269 of the Public Health Act, 1936, were in operation.

There are indications that, because of the acute housing shortage and the demobilisation of Service personnel, numbers of people, and particularly recently-married couples, are purchasing trailer-caravans for occupation until such time as houses become available. The position will require to be carefully watched in order to prevent the development of conditions which might become prejudicial to health or to the amenities of the district and also to ensure that anything in the nature of permanent camps are not established.

Housing.

The report on Rural Housing prepared by a Sub-Committee of the Central Housing Advisory Committee under the Chairmanship of Sir Arthur Hobhouse stated that "an essential step preliminary to any long-term programme should be a thorough and comprehensive survey of housing conditions in every rural district in England and Wales. By this means only can the full extent of the problem be known and adequate programmes drawn up for repairs, reconditioning and new building" and recommended that "the survey should be directed to the classification of every working-class house in the district according to the standard of accommodation and amenities provided and its state of repair." The Committee further recommended that in each County there should be set up a Joint Committee charged, inter alia, with the duty of formulating more uniform standards for demolition, reconditioning and repairs.

In Circular 64/44 dated 24th May, 1944, the Minister of Health indicated his acceptance, in general, of the recommendations in the Hobhouse Report and, in due course, a Joint Advisory Committee was set up in the County of Hertfordshire. This Committee decided that all Rural houses in the County of £20 rateable value and under should come within the scope of the survey. It also drew up a 'standard of fitness' against which all the houses to be surveyed should be measured and classified.

The survey in the St. Albans Rural District commenced on the 1st April, 1945, and the following statement indicates the progress made up to the 31st December, 1945:—

In order to obtain a picture of the immediate housing needs of the district particulars were gathered during the survey of cases of overcrowding and also of all cases where families or married persons are now living as sub-tenants or part occupiers and who require houses of their own. The following figures give this information in respect of those parishes in which the survey had been completed at the end of the year :—

Wheathampstead...	11	68	7
Sandridge	30	5
Colney Heath ...	6	80	2

Water.

82.88 per cent of the dwelling-houses in the area are supplied from waterworks. Of these 95.91% are supplied from the works directly to the houses and the remaining 4.09% by means of standpipes. The supply is constant in every case, the quality of the waters is satisfactory and there is no evidence that they are liable to have plumbo-solvent action. The following table shows the number of houses served by each undertaking which supplies in the District ;—

For a considerable period concern has been felt regarding the inadequacy of the supplies to certain localities which depend principally on wells. Accordingly, and as a preliminary step towards the submission of schemes for the provision of adequate supplies, a report was prepared in November, 1945, showing the unsatisfactory position at Tyttenhanger Green and Sleapshyde in the Parish of St. Peter Rural, at Amwell and Bower Heath and at Nomansland in the Parish of Wheathampstead, and at Old Bricket Wood in the Parish of St. Stephen's.
